Product Description*Genistein CAS 446-72-0*Description

A naturally occurring isoflavone chemical present in legumes such as soybeans is called genistein. It is well-known for having strong antioxidant qualities.

Because of its possible anti-aging benefits, genistein is utilized in cosmetic compositions. It assists in shielding the skin from UV rays, environmental stresses, and free radicals as an antioxidant. Moreover, it shows action, which could explain how it helps to increase skin elasticity and lessen wrinkles and fine lines.

Furthermore, genistein has been researched for its ability to prevent tyrosinase from doing its job, which means it can help with hyperpigmentation and balance out skin tones.

Skin Brightening Formulations: The ingredient is present in cosmetics meant to balance and brighten skin tones, giving the appearance of more young, radiant skin.

Sun Care Products: To offer antioxidant protection and aid in the skin's recovery from sun exposure, genistein is added to sunscreens and after-sun care products.
