Product Description

Glabridin CAS 59870-68-7

Description

A bioactive substance called galbridin is taken from the roots of the licorice plant, Glycyrrhiza glabra. It is a valuable ingredient in many healthcare and cosmetic products because of its strong anti-inflammatory and antioxidant characteristics. Glabridin, an antioxidant, aids in the elimination of free radicals, shielding the skin from oxidative damage and delaying the aging process. It works especially well to block tyrosinase, an enzyme essential to the synthesis of melanin. Glabridin helps to brighten and lighten the skin, which is why it is utilized in skincare treatments that target hyperpigmentation and uneven skin tone. Furthermore, because of its anti-inflammatory qualities, glabridin is a good choice for formulas intended for sensitive skin because it can help calm and soothe irritated skin.

Application

Skincare Products: To treat hyperpigmentation, encourage skin brightening, and offer antioxidant protection, glabridin is frequently used in skincare formulations, including serums, creams, and lotions.

Sun Care Products: Glabridin is a component in sunscreens and after-sun care products because it can lessen UV-induced pigmentation, protecting the skin from UV damage and promoting skin healing.

Cosmetics: Glabridin is used to improve skin tone and give a luminous complexion in a variety of cosmetic products, such as primers, BB creams, and foundations.
