Product DescriptionRetinoic Acid CAS 302-79-4 star anise extract*Description

Tretinoin, another name for retinoic acid, is a vitamin A derivative and a member of the retinoid family. It is widely utilized in dermatology and skincare because of its strong skin-benefiting qualities, which make it extremely valuable.

In terms of makeup formulas, retinoic acid's anti-aging properties are widely recognized. It helps skin cells turn over more quickly, promotes the production of collagen, and helps injured skin heal. The results of this are more equal skin tone, less wrinkles, and better skin texture.

Because it lessens excessive oil production and treats acne, retinoic acid is especially beneficial for those with skin prone to breakouts.

Application

Anti-Aging Skincare: Retinoic Acid is commonly used to reduce the appearance of fine lines and wrinkles, increase skin firmness, and combat the signs of aging in both prescription and over-the-counter skincare formulations.

Acne Treatments: The chemical is used in lotions and gels that treat acne in order to unclog pores, reduce outbreaks, and improve overall skin health.

Dermatological Products: Retinoic Acid is an ingredient in several dermatological products that are used to treat skin conditions like hyperpigmentation, melasma, and psoriasis.
