Product DescriptionHyaluronic Acid CAS 9004-61-9*Description

A naturally occurring glycosaminoglycan, hyaluronic acid is present in connective tissues, skin, and eyes. Because of its remarkable capacity to hold onto moisture, it is an essential element of skin hydration and lubrication.

Because it moisturizes and plumps the skin, hyaluronic acid is highly prized in cosmetic formulas. Its amazing capacity to retain 1,000 times its own weight in water results in deeply hydrating skin and encouraging a dewy, young appearance.

Hyaluronic Acid also helps soothe and calm inflamed skin, increase skin elasticity, and lessen the appearance of fine lines and wrinkles.

Application

Hydrating Skincare Products: To deliver deep and prolonged moisturization, enhance skin texture, and lessen dryness and flakiness, hyaluronic acid is frequently utilized in a variety of hydrating skincare products, such as serums, moisturizers, and masks.

Anti-Aging Formulations: The ingredient is used in anti-aging treatments to improve skin firmness, minimize wrinkles and fine lines, and fight the indications of aging.

Dermal Fillers: To improve face features, plump up the skin, and give the look of youth, hyaluronic acid is a component of cosmetic injectable fillers.
